Genealogist Relates "The Mustard Cup and The Family Tree"

By MARY LYNCH YOUNG
San Francisco, Calif.

THE MUSTARD CUP AND THE FAMILY TREE

Little did I know, as a child growing up in an Irish-Catholic community in Renneville County, Minnesota, that my curiosity about family relationships was to some day develop into a hobby that would enrich my life, increase my interest in history, enlarge my correspondence, broaden my travels and bring me the gratitude of my relatives, including forty nieces and nephews.

Living in Birch Coulee Township, it was easy to keep track of the Lynches—uncles, and first cousins—as I was one of the eldest of my generation. For a few years we even had as a neighbor a first cousin of my father's. It was a bit puzzling to learn that he was my "second" cousin, and that his children were my "third" cousins.

When I was ten, we moved near Watertown, South Dakota, where my mother had been born. Immediately we began meeting a "flock" of relatives who were strangers to me—great aunts, great uncles, second cousins, and third cousins galore. To make it more confusing, few of these relatives attended the Catholic Church.

Every summer they held a family reunion at Lake Kampeska. On Thanksgiving Day they had potluck gatherings at our farm home near Watertown.

In those days I was all ears and hung around the elders, listening to their talk of pioneer days in Dakota territory, childhood days in Canada, and Menomonic and Quaker ancestors who came from Pennsylvania and from Prince Edward "Island". This last really made my ears prick up as one of my favorite story-book characters was Anne of Green Gables, of Prince Edward Island.

HARDY FAMILY

Great aunt Mayme would often say "some day I'm going to trace the family tree". Great uncle Johnny, her husband, would tease her about the horse thief she might find. From the talk I heard I gathered our ancestors were supposed to be upstanding and hardy people, though aunt Mayme never did get to trace the HAIGHT family genealogy before she died.

It was in the spring of 1932, in the midst of the depression, when I graduated from high school. Jobs for a "late blooming" 17-year-old farm girl were almost impossible to find and, to my mother's sorry, and mine, there just wasn't enough money for me to go away to college. One day during that fall, out of boredom I rode into town on been born a long time before. When I asked the year of his birth, she went to get the old family Bible and it showed the date of his birth as October 7, 1779, though did not give his place of birth. She told me she "thought" he was from Prince Edward Island.

That I should be talking to someone who had talked to someone who had lived in the time of George Washington really excited me and I began asking a million questions about Canada. It was near election time and she drew forward two long, yellow, "sample" election ballots, which I've kept to this day, and on the backs of them I made notes. She helped me draw a map of the countryside along Lake Erie where she had grown up. We labelled the "concessions" (as the crossroads were called) and identified the farms around.

Then we drew maps of her childhood farm home and that of her grandmother Matura Hubbs Haight. She showed me where the springhouse was, the summer kitchen, the fields and the gardens and the orchards, and identified the various granges, vines, vegetables, flowers and trees that grew there. Her description of Matura's house was especially interesting to me as in my home we had a snapshot of its ruins, before the black walnut flooring and woodwork were sold for used lumber.

Aunt Phebe described it as a "rund" house, with walls which were two feet thick, and which were whitewashed inside and out each spring. It was cool in the summer, and warm in the winter. Each of the two main rooms on the first floor had a huge fireplace, and with the walls so thick not a word could be heard from one room to the other. She recalled curling up in the window seat (all of the windows had window seats) to read. In the front windows her grandmother kept "love apple" plants which are known to us now as tomatoes. No one in those days ate the fruit as it was considered poisonous, though there was talk of some brave souls having eaten them and still lived.

MUSTARD CUP IN WAGON

Aunt Phebe helped me make a chart of her grandparents, her parents and aunts and uncles with their dates of birth and death, as well as a list of all the cousins she could remember. Before I left that afternoon I told her that some day I would write a story about the mustard cup with the crack and broken handles that it received on the trip from Ontario to Dakota Territory, in the covered wagon, in the year 1881. The winter of 1932-33 was a part conversing with two other girls who had come over from Europe by way of Canada. Mildred mentioned that her maternal grandparents had come from Canada and that there had been a little town in southern Ontario named after the family. She added that she really knew little else about Canada as her grandparents had left there in 1870 and settled in Modesto, California.

My ears pricked up, and I blurted out "Was your grandfather's name Samuel Love?" (I had remembered seeing, among the family data I had accumulated, a notation "Meneable Hubbs married Samuel Love: noth-

LIFE IS TO LIVE

The first time she noticed that something seemed to be wrong was when her husband began leaving the bathroom in a condition that looked as if a hurricane had hit it. One of the things she'd always noticed about him and was proud of was his immaculate attention to cleaning up afterwards—the bathroom, the kitchen, or cooking on the patio. Now he had begun leaving everything around, wet towels on the floor, clothes hung over the edge of the bath, and one day sauce dropped over the patio floor and the steak burned to a cinder.

She spoke to him a few times but he became instantly angry, replying in a voice she had very seldom heard—loud, and with almost violently suppressed anger. Then he began to be so restless in bed at night that she was forced after a few weeks to suggest he move to the spare room. His anger at this was so violent that she became afraid, and moved to the spare room herself, when he completely refused. Many an evening she tried, without any success, to discover if something was troubling him. "What should be troubling me?" he'd answer abruptly. "We've everything two people could possibly want. The kids are doing well—as happily married as anyone else. What in the world would be worrying me. What do you keep on asking for? For heaven's sake, stop nagging."

But it was difficult not to probe and question him, for she just could not find the answer. The bathroom was now constantly in a mess, ing further is known of this family as they removed to "Medisto", California in 1870. Mildred looked at me in astonishment and exclaimed "But how did you know?"

VACATION IN CANADA

To make a long story shorter, in 1967 Mildred and I spent a vacation together in Canada which we thoroughly enjoyed. I located what was left of Hubbsville, and found the farmhouse that William Hubbs had built in 1814 still standing—stone walls, double fireplaces and all. We found several with the name of Hubbs still living there in the beau-and when the next summer came she found she dare not trust him to barbecue properly when the crowd came in. One weekend on the boat he crashed into the dock at the marina, jolting everyone aboard, and seemed irritably unconscious of having done anything unusual. Incidents like this became frequent.

At last, one of her close friends, Julia, spoke to her. "Don't you think Bob is acting a little oddly these days?" "Is anything troubling him?"

"I'm tired of asking him that," Madge replied, and found herself distressed that Julia should have noticed anything: though she supposed by this time all their friends were wondering. She did not want to discuss the matter with anyone, not even Julia. There seemed to be some kind of shame for Bob mixed up with her concern for him. Shame for the whole family, she supposed.

Even the children were beginning to wonder, she knew, though one of them said a thing. "I suppose," she thought, "that the children think we're having marital troubles, and don't want to interfere."

With this thought, she began to watch her husband more closely: perhaps there was another woman, but surely not. Then one night Bob did not return home. He'd been to his club, she knew, and usually came home around midnight. At two in the morning, Madge became alarmed. She called the night porter. No, Mr. Benson had left around eleven o'clock. He didn't seem very well, the porter said. Had he been fully kept county. We visited with Alton Haight and discovered that the three of us were all descended, not through the Haight side at all, but through three sisters of a large Quaker family by the name of Bull who had come to Prince Edward County from Dutchess County, New York, in the 1790's.

My Quaker ancestors came over in the 1620's-30's and 40's (though the Quaker religion didn't begin to "catch on" until 1645), the Menomonic ancestors were among those who came to Pennsylvania from Germany in the 1750's and came to drinking too heavily? thought Madge. If so, it was most unusual. She lay in bed worrying, and found that a terrible suspicion was now beginning to invade her thoughts. There must be someone else. There could hardly be any other reason for him being like this.

At five in the morning Bob arrived home. When she started to ask wherever he had been, for the first time ever he struck Madge. "It's none of your business where I've been," "But if you must know, I've been wandering around the water-front. I've just been wandering." He fell into bed, slept heavily, almost in a stupor.

The office called, and Madge made some weak explanation. Bob had the flu, he'd be back in a few days.

But Bob refused to get out of bed, and was suddenly very depressed. He became violent when Madge suggested getting their doctor. "I'll leave if you do," and not come back at all, this time.

Only when her friend Julia, and her older daughter, Bess, pleaded so strongly that she could not resist, did Madge talk to them about her growing fears for Bob's emotional health. "There isn't any one else," she said. "I know that now. But something is very, very wrong."

Julia told her then, of a similar time she had had with her mother. "I wish you'd just take a look at this little book," she said to Madge. It's called "When Things Go Wrong—What Can You Do?" It has some really good advice as to what to do when this sort of thing happens; attitudes to adopt, and so on. Do read it, Madge, and then talk to Canada after the Revolutionary War for the same reasons the Quaker ancestors had. Though my six Irish great grandparents didn't come over until the potato famine in the 1840's, I learned of a great great grandfather who also came at that time, who was born in County Tipperary in 1733.

And the mustard cup? Great aunt Phebe's daughter, Bess, who is now 83 years old says that some day it may be mine!

Yes, I recommend genealogy as a hobby for anyone who is interested in history.

me, and I'll do anything I can to help you help Bob."

Madge read carefully and then sent for some more copies from the local Canadian Mental Health Association.

"The CMHA is sending out many hundreds of these all across Canada, to everyone who asks for one," she told her daughter later. "And it certainly guided me as to the approach I should take with Dad. I think that every family would be wise to have one on hand. Look how long it was before I really became aware of what was wrong?"

Twelve months later, Bob was planning a party aboard the boat. Madge was planning the barbecue. "I've bought the steaks, and you'll cook them, I hope," she said to him. "Who else?" he replied, with his old vigor and sense of fun, much more like his old self. He had accepted in-depth counselling and after a time, had eight months of therapy. He was very ready to have the party. It was a celebration of a promotion for him at the office.

Madge had only one regret—that her sense of shame concerning emotional illness had prevented her from talking to Julia earlier, and thus getting the CMHA book many months before Bob's condition became really serious.

CLIMBING AND RAMBLING ROSES

Many contemporary buildings with sizable areas of blank wall may be pleasantly softened by plants, yet many home-owners lack the patience to train espaliered trees and shrubs.

They could, however, find a suitable trellis, plant roses, take care of the yearly winter covering and have very satisfactory results.

Roses trained on a neat trellis will not only provide a very colorful display when in flower, but also cast an interesting shadow pattern at other seasons.

Stone and roses are often combined to make a notable garden composition. Strong pink and red climbing roses stand out beautifully against grey sandstone or white, the bronzy varieties are attractive against warmer tones of angel stone.

Another very striking use of roses is on a post-and-rail fence in country-like surroundings where climbers can be set against posts and trained along the rails. If there isn't a fence available a well selected rose such as Sympathic which has double-red hybrid-tea-like flowers and dark green leaves can add glamor to a private lamp post.

The climbing and rambling roses used this way are usually the kinds that produce long canes. They need some form of support if they are to be displayed on trellises, walls, arbors or pergolas.

The climbers are divided into several classes in catalogues. The most common are ramblers, pillar roses, everblooming climbers, climbing hybrid teas, climbing polyanthus, climbing floribundas and trailing roses.

Ramblers are the oldest of the climbing roses, but even these only date back to 1895 when Crimson Rambler, a form of Rosa multiflora was introduced. Prior to that, wild species and selections such as Rosa wichuriana, Rosa banksiae and forms of Rosa odorata provided the climbing and pillar types that are often seen illustrated in old pre-1900 pictures.

With the introduction of Crimson Rambler, the interest in climbing roses increased considerably and many hybrids were produced. The true ramblers as we see them today were derived from Rosa multiflora, the Japanese rose, and Rosa wichuriana, the Memorial rose. The best of them were and still are Dorothy Perkins, Hiawatha and Minnehaha.

In the early 1900's climbers with flowers which radiated from a central point were introduced. These were called "mound" roses and included the "mound" roses which have only one main stem.

Pillar roses are the same as climbers, but have more moderate growth and can be grown on a pillar about six feet high with little or no pruning.

Nowadays the everblooming climbers are fast taking over from the large flowered ones; there are many hardier types and they produce a good display of bloom over a longer period. The two most popular are Paul's Scarlet and its almost identical Twin-Blaze, which is a climber with slightly larger flowers and a more everblooming habit.

Looking at the rose catalogues from British Columbia and milder areas you will notice many cultivars of climbing hybrid teas, climbing hybrid floribundas, climbing polyanthus and even climbing miniaturs.

In most parts of Canada where the winters are severe these are even less hardy than the common climbers and ramblers. In the Ottawa area some rosarians have considered Climbing Peace as quite hardy with adequate covering. These roses are much more difficult to bring down to ground level for covering in early winter.

For all intents and purposes in most garden catalogues, climbing roses are divided into climbers and ramblers and the demarcation is made with the method of pruning.

Climbers are pruned by taking out the weaker shoots and thinning the canes if too many are produced. Ramblers bloom only once and the canes that produce the flowers must be cut down to or below ground level right after flowering.

Not many Canadian catalogues list ramblers nowadays, nor are they especially desirable unless one wishes to have pergolas and trellises covered with roses of a hygone era. In such cases look for the cultivars mentioned above.

Some excellent everblooming climbing roses apart from those mentioned earlier are Aloha, rose pink; Coral Dawn, coral rose; Golden Showers, yellow; Hamburger Phoenix, deep red; Heidelberg, bright crimson; New Dawn, pink; Parade, deep rose pink; Spectacular, scarlet red; Sympathic, deep red and Viking Queen, deep pink.

All those mentioned should be covered in winter in areas where ten degrees below zero or colder temperatures are likely to occur. Take down the canes from their supports and lie them on the ground and then cover with a soil mound. Taking the roses down is best done just before freezing weather occurs for the canes are more supple at this time and will withstand bending. Later in the fall or early winter, while the soil is still workable, they should be covered with soil mounds, and in really severe climates should be finally covered with a six-inch layer of leaves after the soil has frozen.

AFFECTS CHILDREN

Do children suffer from arthritis? According to The Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, it is much more common in children than most people realize. The earlier the diagnosis is made and treatment is begun, the better the chances for the future.

The incidence of rheumatoid arthritis is particularly high among women—the ratio is approximately three women for every man affected.

A TRIP TO Yesterday

Flower planting time and a story has fought its way to the surface again. Not in my lifetime do I recall not "loving" flowers. It's been a way or part of life to me. Was always brought up to love and respect flowers. Mom had fairly good luck with my sister and I in that respect. Just a few times we ever bothered anyone's flowers.

Once Mom's bed of Iris. They were beautiful. I suppose she would have had 500 blooms the year we played "canning factory" and "canned" every bud in the whole bed. We lived on the corner of Main and Downs Ave. then, and this one flower bed ran the full length of the yard. Mom was doing a wash that day, out in our woodshed, so therefore working at the back of the house. As we kids were always "so good", I suppose she wasn't paying much attention to us. There was sister Jimmie, and my girl friend Aggie, and I. Now what harm could three little girls do? Well, Mom came to call us for my kindergarten teacher. What a er hurt a leaf or root on the plant.

What's new with you?

This is your chance to tell Canada who you are and how you're doing.

Census day is almost like voting day. It's your right and privilege. Your chance to let Canada know all about yourself and your family. How and where you live. It's as secret as the ballot. All these facts become statistics. And many organizations use them to plan for our future.

This is how governments know where to spend money for the most necessary things: hospitals, schools, housing projects, roads and highways, community centres, parks.

For example, a high percentage of children under five in one section of your community may alert the board of education to the need for a new school. Or, districts with a high proportion of sub-standard housing may be identified and ear marked for urban renewal and development programs. Things like that.

It's a do-it-yourself census.

Any day now, you'll receive your census questionnaire. The idea is that everyone in Canada must fill in that form on June 1. If a pre-paid return envelope came with the population census form complete the questionnaire and mail it back. If there is no envelope, don't mail it but hold the form until it is picked up by a census representative.

This will probably be the first time you've ever had the chance to fill in your own census form. The old way of sending census takers around knocking on doors and asking you questions served a useful purpose in its day. But we've found, after many trial censuses, that people do a better job when they fill in their questionnaires themselves.

If you are a farm operator.

If you have a farm, the census representative will bring you the Census of Agriculture form along with the population census form. The extra information you give is important for government farm programs and farm organizations in the years ahead. Some time after June 1, the census representative will call on you to pick up the completed census forms. So don't mail them back.

What happens if somebody doesn't fill in his census form?

Everyone in Canada is required by law to be counted in the national census. If you don't bother, a census representative will have to come around and fill in your questionnaire with you. So, if you do it yourself, you'll save time and money for everyone.

We need facts about you... and your family. Otherwise we won't have the whole story.

Give a few minutes to the Census of Canada. And Canada will give you a better future.

It's your census. Everyone has the right to be counted. Everyone has the right to expect the information he gives to be treated in absolute confidence. And you can be sure that the information will be used for the good of all Canadians.

So, don't forget, June 1. Tell us what's new.

Count yourself in.

the school bus with my younger brothers and sisters. It was to prove to be one of the most fascinating days of my life.

The Carnegie Library didn't open until nine o'clock and it was too early for the stores to be open, so I wandered over to great aunt Phebe Haigh Schooley's home. She was just finishing a batch of doughnuts and invited me to join her in having doughnuts and coffee, laying a fresh linen tablecloth in the dining room to make me feel a little "special". While enjoying the doughnuts my eye wandered to her sideboard. Right in the centre of the sideboard, on its own doily, always stood a strange-looking little dish which I had often puzzled over. It was striped around, had an old crack down its side, and obviously had once had handles.

That day I asked her what the little dish was for. She replied that it was a "mustard cup" and related to me the story of how, when she was a little girl visiting her grandmother Matura Hubbs Haigh, near St. Thomas, Ontario, she and a cousin sat playing on the lawn. Through the window they could see their great grandfather, William Hubbs, having breakfast while wearing his broad-brimmed beaver hat. When he had finished his meal he picked up two little dishes and hobbled into the yard on his cane, to present them to the two little girls. As she recalled, he said, "Here Phebe Ann and Louisa, these are thine to remember me by".

FROM PRINCE EDWARD

He was Quaker, of course. Since great aunt Phebe was then 76 years old, and he was her great grandfather, I reasoned he must have actually found one in Saint Patrick and in February of 1933 my mother died, leaving ten children including myself, the eldest, and a six-weeks old baby. My grandfather Lynch lingered with us for a few weeks after the funeral and gave us all badly needed moral support. In our conversations I drew from him all he could tell me of his parents, and his wife's parents, who had all left Ireland during "the Great Hunger"—the potato famine of the 1840's. They were all young and single when they left Ireland and did not know each other. They met and married in America, eventually farming in the same community in Iowa. The two families—Lynch and McCormick—have adjoining plots in the cemetery in Early, Iowa.

All of my notes were then put away, though not forgotten, until the fall of 1948 in San Francisco, when I again thought of writing the story of the mustard cup. In doing a bit of research at the public library, I learned that Prince Edward Island belonged to France until 1779 when it became a possession of Great Britain. A lively correspondence ensued with the librarian in Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island. She searched ship records, birth records, all records, for the name of Hubbs but it was not to be found.

Another visit to the San Francisco library produced a card-index file which had a notation under "Quaker, meetings, records of" to the effect that the Quakers kept such records in Philadelphia and gave an address. I wrote to them and they answered, saying they had no records of meetings held in Canada but had had an inquiry similar to mine in 1922 from a Mrs. Mary E. Hubbs in East Moline, Illinois, and suggested I write to her.

BEGINS CORRESPONDING

This I did, in the hope that the lady still lived at the same address. She did, and then began a lengthy correspondence in which she fed me all the genealogical material on the Hubbs line which she'd been collecting since 1912, though even her husband was not a close relative of ours. The dear lady died in 1958 at the age of 86 but by then I'd long forgotten the mustard cup and was deeply engrossed in genealogy.

Through Mrs. Mary Hubbs I learned that William Hubbs had been born on Long Island, New York, and had gone to what became Prince Edward County, Ontario, in 1797 with his father and the rest of a large family as "late Loyalists". The farm on Long Island which had been in the Hubbs family since 1668 had been taken from them by the Yankees, as the Hubbs were Pacifican side—neither had they fought on the British side!

The natives of Prince Edward County often refer to it as "The Island" and the reason for it is apparent upon looking at a map of Ontario, and this explains the con-

The Hights.

The Hights.--- Simon Hoyt came from England and settled in Salem, Mass., in 1628. The great-great-grandson of this Simon Hoyt was Joseph Hoyt or Haight who lived at Washington, Dutchess Co., N.Y. Joseph and Margaret Haight had eight children---Joseph, Jonathan, Obadiah, Rachel, Reuben, Amos, David and Daniel. The youngest child, Daniel, was born Jan. 14th, 1764, and died at Adolphustown Aug. 19th, 1850. He came to Canada at the end of the last century. The children of Daniel and Mary Haight numbered eleven. The eldest son, Philip, married Anna daughter of Philip Dorland. The third child, John, married as his second wife Betsey, the daughter of Philip Dorland. The fourth child, Rhoda, married Daniel Ruttan, son of Wm. Ruttan. The sixth child, Ricketson, married Mary, fifth daughter of James Canniff. The seventh child, Reuben Amos, married Jane West, grand-daughter of Wm. Casey. The eleventh child, Samuel Dorland Haight, married the daughter of Samuel Dorland, son of Thomas Dorland. The eldest son of Ricketson Haight is Canniff Haight, who married Jane Casey Ingersoll, daughter of Isaac Ingersoll and grand-daughter of Willet Casey. Joel Haight, a nephew of Daniel Haight, married Bathsheba Dorland, second daughter of John Dorland.

I am seeking authentic information as to descendants of the Daniel Haight family who were of U. S. L. stock settling near Wellington Ont. at the time of the American Revolution. My grandfather Daniel Haight II was, I believe, the grandson and he had two families the first by a daughter of the Wilson family composed of Charles Frederick, Gregg and Minnie.

Information desired is relative to the second family from which my Grandfather was ~~truth~~ separated late in life and about which he seldom spoke. I ~~knew my g.~~ lived with him several years in the first decades of this century at Thessalon Ont and at that time his second family were in and around the old home at Wellington.

Sincerely, Dr. J. L. Haight, Box 403 Verdugo City, California

JOSEPH HAIGHT

DESERONTO — Funeral of Joseph Alvin Haight, of Lonsdale, who was killed when run over by a truck, was held at his residence with interment at Victoria Cemetery.

Superintendent of the Hastings County road crew, he was killed while working at Lonsdale, on the Fourth Concession of Tyendinaga Township, helping to construct a driveway at the home of his son.

Born at Lonsdale, 52 years ago, he was a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Haight and was a lifelong resident of the Lonsdale community. He leaves his son, Angus, and his wife, the former Rita McLean.

He also leaves his parents, at RR 1, Lonsdale, and two brothers and a sister, Kenneth Haight, of Lonsdale, and Mervin Haight, of Picton, and Miss Mary Elizabeth Haight, of Ottawa, as well as a granddaughter, Dorothy Haight, 2. A member of the United Church, he also belonged to Craig Masonic Lodge, No. 401, Deseronto.

The funeral was conducted by Rev. J. McMurray, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Roslin, and Rev. T. Hogerwaar, of the United Church at Lonsdale, conducted the service at the graveside.

Pall-bearers were Armour Colden, Dan McHenry, Claude McRae, Ed Lazier, Milton Hagerman and Jack Goodfellow. Flower-bearers were Murney Whiteman, Ward White, Jack Skelly, Sammy Cross, Stan Watson, Alvin McRae, Fred Grey and Jack Moffatt.

Mrs. David R. Taylor
R. R. 1
Picton, Ontario
Canada

Dear Mrs. Taylor:

Your name was listed on the back cover of the "Ontario History" a quarterly of the Ontario Historical Society, as being secretary of the Prince Edward Historical Society, therefore my reason for writing to you at this time. I am hoping that perhaps you may be able to help me with information on several families who lived in Prince Edward County long ago.

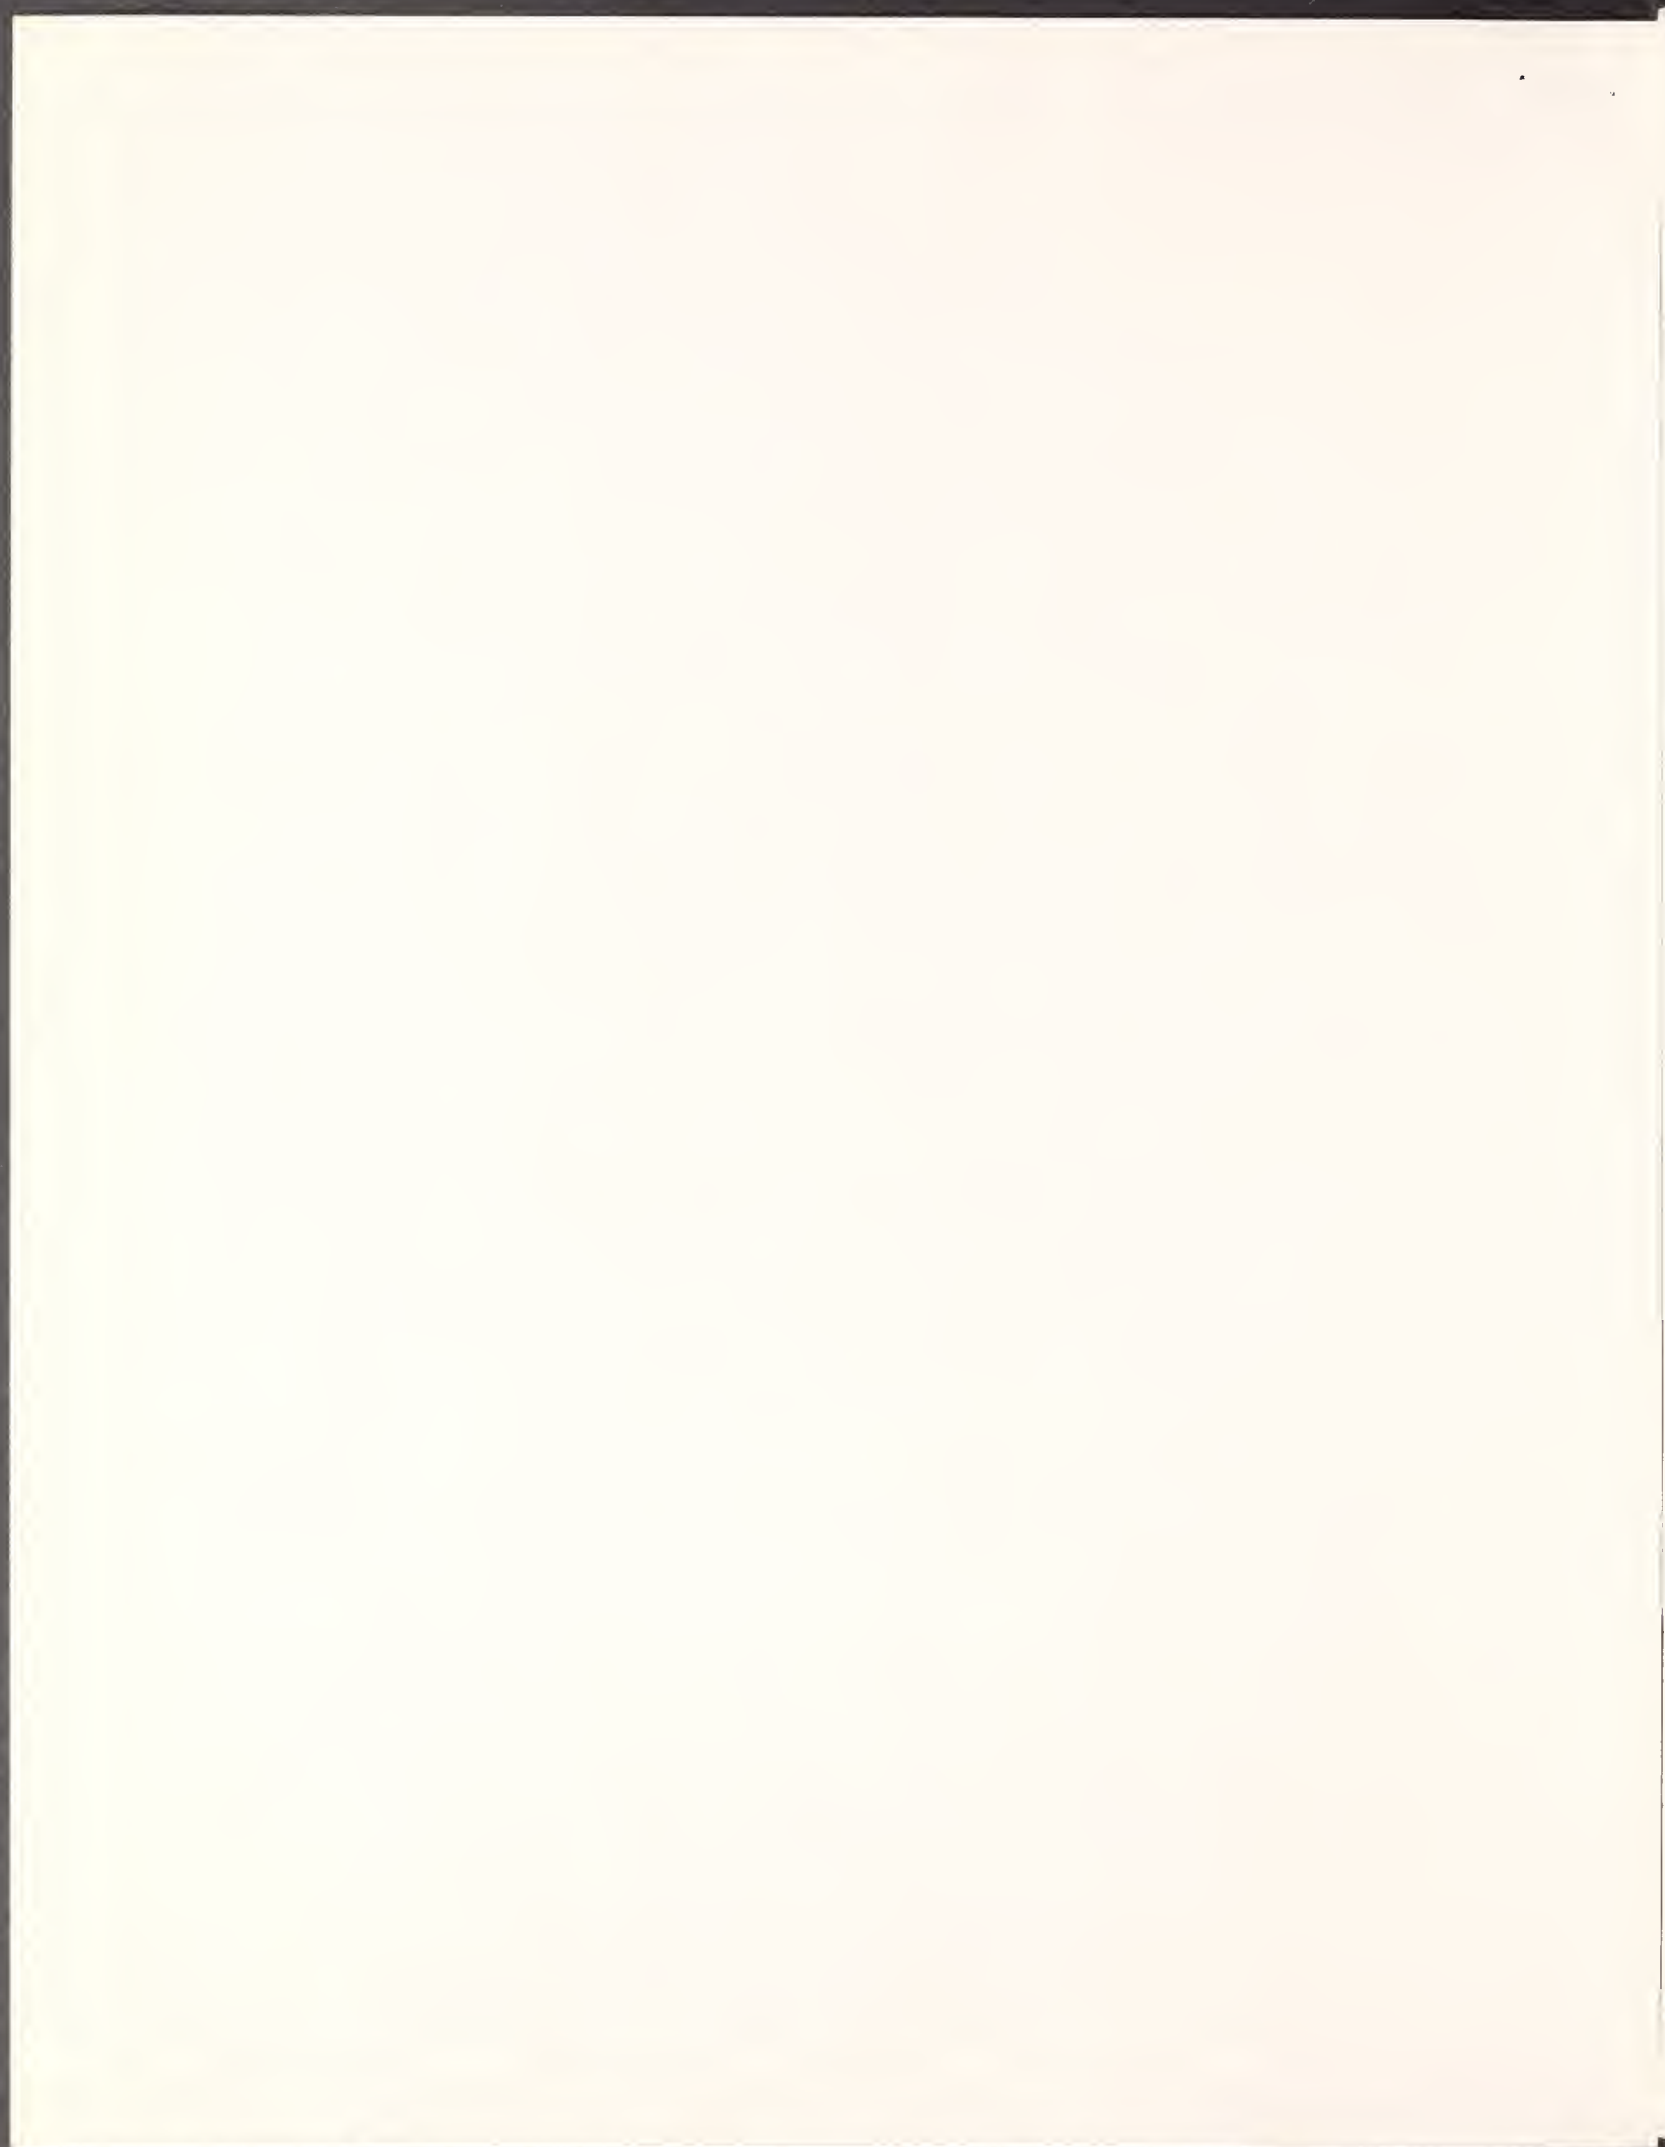

For some time, I have been doing research on my husband's family, Bates-Youmans(Yeomans-Yoemans)-Oakes(Oaks)-Cory-Secord-Culver, through which I have learned of links such as Branscombe, Bowerman, etc. In the beginning I did so poorly with the BATES family, that I began working on the YOUNG (Yeomans-Yoemans) family, and early in my search, I was told by a very elderly (now deceased) researcher who also had done some work on the Youmans(Yeomans-Yoemans) family, that the HAIGHT family was connected somewhere with the "Y" family, however, she did not know the connection or where to search for it.

After reading a book that I recently purchased from your County Office, titled "The County...The First Hundred Years in Loyalist Prince Edward", by Richard and Janet Lunn, I found on page 255, a picture of BATHSHEBA TABITHA HAIGHT, the wife of JOHN MULLET. I immediately noticed the very striking resemblance between Bathsheba (Haight) Mullet, and a woman who is pictured on an old photo of mine that was taken in 1870 at St. Catharines, Ontario. This picture of 1870 is a group picture showing four women, one man, and one child. The woman I have reference to could perhaps have been born about 1830, however, I could be wrong on this date as it is difficult to tell the exact age from the old photographs., nevertheless, taking this date as possible, perhaps this woman could have been a daughter of Bathsheba????

The woman looks so much like Bathsheba (Haight) Mullet, that I feel if she is not a daughter of Bathsheba, perhaps she could be a daughter of one of Bathsheba's sisters, or the daughter of one of Bathsheba's brothers, in order to have such a strong likeness to Bathsheba, or the HAIGHT family.

Since acquiring the above mentioned old photograph from a Youmans family belonging to my husband's group, I have continually searched through books and histories always hoping to eventually see at least one person who is pictured on my old photo of 1870, so I naturally was elated when I found the picture of Bathsheba (Haight) Mullet in the book, and could not help but notice the close resemblance of the two women.

I also have a tin-type of this woman who is pictured in the 1870 photograph, but it is of her in old age and she resembles Bathsheba in old age too.

There is a reference to a sister of John Mullet, a DEBORAH MULLET, who had married CONSIDER HAIGHT and later married Vincent Bowerman. On page 414, is the starting of a manuscript by CANIFF HAIGHT, and on page 421, he mentions his uncle, Consider Haight. This ties the two families together. Caniff Haight mentions his sisters Almeda and Anna on page 421, and also sisters Mary Eliza and Ellen Jane on page 423.

Would you have any information concerning the families of John Mullet and Bathsheba (Haight) Mullet; also those of Consider Haight and his wife Deborah (Mullet) Haight; and the family of Shadrick R. Haight, who was the father of Caniff Haight; and anything additional you may have on Caniff Haight. In other words, I want information on the HAIGHT families, this would include the daughters also, not just the sons. I have a feeling the woman on my old photograph belongs to one of the HAIGHT families.

My husband's line comes down from Daniel Youmans (Yeomans), and I have always felt it quite possible to find a tie-in with those of the Bay of Quinte area.

In working on the CORY family, I found Elizabeth (Cory) Secord had married a Nathaniel Branscombe and was living in Hallowell Township in the 1850's. Nathaniel was a Quaker from New York State. Elizabeth (Cory) Secord's daughter, Mary Ann Secord, married and was living in the Bay of Quinte area around that time also, however, unfortunately, I have been unable to learn who she married. And, I have been unable to learn anything more on Elizabeth. Am hoping that you might possibly have some information on Elizabeth who married Nathaniel Branscombe and something on her daughter Mary Ann Secord who may have remained near her mother (after her marriage to Nathaniel Branscombe). I have been searching for some time, but have not found anything more on either of these women. Since Nathaniel Branscombe was a Quaker, perhaps information regarding the family would not be found in the history or county books, and would have to be found in some particular book on Quakers. Could this be the answer to my not being able to find data on these women.

Would you happen to know to whom I could write regarding information on those who lived in the Hallowell Township long ago, and also to whom I might write for information on the various places where burying grounds could be found in that township.

If you know of any family histories or genealogies that have been written about the Haight...Mullet...Branscombe...Bowerman....Secord...Vail Cory....Youmans (Yeomans)...Burlingham....Leavens....Bradshaw....Bates...Oakes families in the Bay of Quinte area, I would deeply appreciate learning about them, by whom written and perhaps when published, this would be of great help in trying to locate a copy. Our Library does not have a large amt.

After seeing the photo of Rachel Jane (Bowerman) Cronkite, on page 391, I believe I also have a photo of some one who strongly resembles her. My husband is related to the Vail family on which I have worked also and have found a link to the Bowerman family in Upper Canada, through this means.

If there are any books on the Bay of Quinte area that you think would be very helpful, I would be grateful for their title and date of publication and if possible author. I have tried to get several old books of historical or genealogical nature from Toronto Library on the Inter-loan system through our Library, but unsuccessful, so am trying to get used copies whenever possible through the book stores, but I must have complete information in order to get them. Do you know if it would be possible to get any old histories or genealogies through inter-loan system in any of the libraries in the Bay of Quinte area.

I do hope that you will be able to give me some information, regardless how little, any amount will be deeply appreciated. Any suggestions would be equally appreciated. I hope within the near future to start work on the census records for Prince Edward County as well as a few neighboring counties.

I would appreciate hearing from you at your earliest convenience and shall be grateful for whatever you are able to pass along to me. With many thanks and best wishes, I remain

Sincerely yours,

P.S. I do have some records of a few Youmans who are buried at Picton, but not all of the Youmans families. Are there any Youmans living in the area at present.

October 29, 1967

Dr. H. C. Burleigh
Bath, Ontario

Dear Dr. Burleigh,

This past week I have returned to San Francisco from a lengthy trip, part of which took me into Prince Edward County.

While there I talked with Mrs. Marjorie Thompson who later said she had spoken to you about the data I was interested in. I had hoped to get to see you on Sunday, October 1st but was with someone else who had other plans. I regret very much not having met you and hope it will be my pleasure when I come to Prince Edward County again, probably about 1970!

Prince Edward County was a fascinating place to me and how I wish I could have stayed much longer. For the past twenty years I have been working on genealogies which always seem to take me back to that county. In 1962 I published a mimeographed history of the descendants of Stephen Haight and Matura Hubbs (which serves also as a history of all the descendants of William Hubbs and Phebe Bull of Prince Edward County as Matura was their only child).

It is my hope to print the same history in hard cover within the next few years as I am collecting more and more data on Matura's ancestry. (The Bulls and the Hubbs)

My particular desire right now is to learn more about Stephen's ancestry. Enclosed is a chart which explains all I have learned so far (very little). Incidentally, after I left Prince Edward County, I visited in Elgin County where I was given many old papers and deeds belonging to Matura Haight and Stephen, also William's Hubbs -- some dated back to Hallowel, 1807. There was evidence there that William had some means as he and Lucinda had lent money to various people. There was also evidence that he at one time had ordered someone in Elgin County to foreclose on his son-in-law for non-payment of debt! It was there I learned that Stephen could not write for I found papers with his "X".

Now, if you could add anything to the papers I am enclosing I would be most grateful to you.

Yours sincerely,

Mary Young

PS: While in London I visited with Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Gray; in fact I stayed with them at their lovely home. (Mr. Gray is a distant cousin of mine on the Zavitz side of our family).

They spoke of you and Mrs. Gray asked me to tell you that I had seen the lovely glassware she purchased of you at one time.

Dear Dr. Burleigh,

Enclosed are forms I filled out <sup>over</sup> 2 years ago - & did not get sent, along with a letter I wrote - which may or may not be of interest to you now.

However I am still interested in becoming a member of the U.E.W. Association. An explanation for the lapse of time - I went back to active nursing, this plus home duties left little extra time!

Enclosed is a cheque for $6.00 which covers both applications enclosed. Hope they are satisfactory

yours sincerely,
Florence L. Haight.

Dear Sir,

Thank you for your letter and the U.E.L. association application forms. I am returning forms, completed to the best of our ability, as records have a habit of being incomplete in spots; and $3.00 for each membership fee. Sorry all.

You asked about Wilfred Hay et al: you will find his name in the records I sent you earlier this year: he is my husband's uncle.

You also expressed interest in the Bruner family, and sent me a list of a Peter Brunner of Adolphstuen. I believe they are of no relation to the Essex County Bruners - always spelled with one "N".

The "Commemorative Biographical Record of who's who in Essex County, 1905" - containing well over 500 pages - devoted a large chapter to the Bruner family. Reuben Bruner, my great grandfather, was still alive when the book was written "... an esteemed resident of Rosfield South, County of Essex, ... one of the most venerable citizens of this locality ... belonging to one of the old families ... remarkable memory of long past events." He was born 1823 - 9th child of a family of 12.

The three Bruner boys that came to Canada with their mother were George (Reuben's father), Adam & Henry. ~~George would have been 23 at the~~ no sons of his <sup>George's</sup> were named Peter. Henry had one son named Peter, born 1819. ... Adam's family is not recorded at all. The Peter born 1819 could not be the one - & records say he spent his lifetime at Olinda.

 Nor is there any mention of the spelling "Brunner" -

Between the records that you sent of Peter Brunner of Adolphustown, and the Bruners of Essex that I have,
 I can find no connection: The Essex Bruners came to Olinda from ~~Pennsylvania~~<sup>maybe</sup>, settled down and stayed there, again, except Adam. Can you find this unit much help

I have written the Dominion Archives but cannot trace the Abrahams family (my husband's ancestors) - or the Flitts, my grandmother Davenis.

Thank you for your interest and hope the enclosed forms are in order.

Yours truly,
 Florence L. Haight

The document is the property of John Lawson Haight, of California, and he kindly sent it to me to copy. It was quite fragile, and yellow with age. I copied the geneology in its entirety..some 40 typewritten pages, much of it Caniff Haight's comments and explanations, which serve to make it more interesting.

1628: SIMON HOYT came to America from Upway, Dorchester, in the county of Dorset, England.

From the best information that can obtained, the ~~name~~ was originally German, and spelled as we spell it to-day. In England it was changed to Hoyte, and in England to the present day the name is spelled thus. It is remarkable how many ways this short name has been spelled through the years, for instance, Hoyt, Hoit, Hoyte, Haite, Hoytt, Hoitt, Hoyet, Hoyette, Hoyght, Hoit, Hight, Hite, Hyatt, Hayte, Hait, Hayt, Haight, Haytee, Haitt, Hieght, Hoett, Hawitt, Hyet, Hiot, Houit, Hyte and perhaps several other ways.

For the history of the ancestors of our grandfather, I am indebted to David W. Hoyt's Genealogical History Of the Hoyt, Haight and Hight families published at Providence in 1871.

NOTE..The information..pages of it, of Simon Hoyt and his descendants is copied from Town Records, in Conneticut and New York, and usually is concerned with land holdings, etc. (F.H.)

SIMON HOYT, originally from Upway, Dorchester, county of Dorset, England, emigrated to America in 1628, and became one of the first settlers of Charlestown. He eventually lived at Dorchester, then Scituate, Mass., then in Windsor, then Stamford, Connecticut, where his death is recorded in 1657...Probably he was born about 1595.

 Walter, b. 1618
 Nicholas, b. 1620
 John, b. 1630
 Moses b. 1637
 Joshua, b. 1641
 Samuel, b. 1643
 Benjamin, b. 1644
 and three daughters, names not given.

Of these children, Moses, the fourth son, is the one we are the more immediately interested in, as the first link in the chain of our descent.

Dear Sir:

I am Cunningham's sister. when we were East in 1961 you were good enough to give my husband and myself some of your time. We were interested in Haight ancestors. You gave me the name of Dr. John Lawson Haight in California. As your records were incomplete you asked me if I found the missing links to please let you know, to complete your records.

Many thanks for giving me John Lawson's address. From him I received his own old copy of Caniff Haight's genealogy, which I copied. This gave me all the information I could want. He had a most interesting correspondence. I got my copy last winter, and only now have I gotten a copy typed for you, very brief, with only the direct line of our family. Caniff's complete genealogy contained complete branches that have long been lost to the Adolphustown district. Please excuse typographical errors.

Other interesting things contained in the genealogy was a complete list of sale of Daniel Haight's possession and the price they brought - in pounds, shillings & pence, also a glossary of Caniff's with the names & definitions of many household and farm utensils even then becoming obsolete.

through which we claim U.E.L. dissonance
On writing to a Ruttan relative <sup>in Calgary</sup> I received a more complete - with interesting details - record of the Ruttan family. On writing to Leamington, Ontario, a dear old lady who ~~was~~ mother's first cousin carefully removed <sup>many</sup> pages from an old book "who's who in Essex County" - & mailed them to me. These I was happy to have, - mother's account was wrong in a few details of the Bruner family.
Incidentally, the ancestors - U.E.L.'s & Rev - consisted of a widow and three half grown sons, one of the sons being our ancestor. As the children - the boys were minors - would the widow Bruner qualify as a U.E.L. ancestor?

We had a discussion re the qualifications of the Haight's (male) <sup>ancestors</sup> as U.E.L. loyalists, and you stated they were Quakers, therefore not U.E.L.'s.

However, as Ricketson Haight, my husband's great grandfather, married Mary Canniff, daughter of
husband's great grandmother was the daughter of a U.E.L., and this would then admit my husband as a member of the Society? As the Canniffs were a well-known family it is possible you have their genealogy, or at least a reference to the James, U.E.L., and his daughter, Mary.

If my husband is eligible, would you please send me two copies of the U.E.L. application forms. I spoiled mine, having filled in the Bruner branch with <sup>erroneous</sup> information I had before receiving the material from Essex County. And I am anxious to join, if I may - if we may.

Yours truly,
Florence L. Haight
